The vestibules are two former entrances located at either end of the city hall which Marvin Rees, Mayor of Bristol, opened up to showcase Bristol talent and give cultural and community groups unique environments to display their work.

The vestibules has hosted numerous exhibitions, performances, cinemas and pop up art markets and is a fantastic space in the heart of the city for groups to share their projects and ideas.

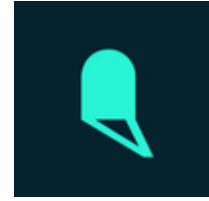

Artspace Lifespace is working with Bristol City Council's Arts Development Team to help them explore this alternative way of supporting Bristol's arts and culture sector.

OPENING HOURS

The Vestibules are available to hire all year round and are accessible Monday - Friday between 8am and 8pm.

Weekend openings are subject to an additional security fee.

ACCESSIBILITY

There is level access into the building and adapted toilets inside city hall which can be accessed by hirers only. Visitors to the Vestibules cannot access the toilets.
